Carrier Grade Internet Solutions for Mobile Network Operators

Gateway Communications is the largest provider of pan-African satellite and cable connectivity solutions. With a presence in over 40 African countries we own and operate the largest pan-African network.

Africa IPJetDirect is designed for African Mobile Network Operators (MNOs) who provide GPRS, EDGE or 3G services to enable them to profitably increase revenue, reduce OPEX and minimise customer churn.

Africa IPJetDirect provides high speed, low latency internet connectivity for MNOs who demand the highest levels of quality, connectivity and efficiency.

More than any other service provider, Gateway Communications understands the African market and has the scale, resources and technical expertise to precisely meet the requirements of the African mobile industry.

How it works

To provide the highest quality associated with mobile internet and African content IPJetDirect is an Africa wide, high speed, low latency backbone which is connected to multiple tier 1 internet providers and other selected networks.

Wherever you are located, Gateway's enhanced techniques of caching and web acceleration makes the service especially suitable for delivery via satellite or cable. State-of-the-art traffic shapers and monitoring systems ensure we deliver the highest quality service.
